

Delivering In-House Training

Once training materials are complete, actual training begins.

We will support the training process until we are certain that the training materials and trainers are performing at a level that ensures the success of the training system. We will support your in-house training efforts by:

- training your in-house trainers
- supporting the field-test of the competency-based training materials to ensure they are:
  - complete
  - accurate
  - logical
  - well organized to support the training process

We will revise materials as necessary to ensure they meet the goals of the training, and mentor your trainers as they practice and improve their skills with guidance from our experienced staff.

Contract Training: Task Trainers can provide qualified trainers and conduct training whenever requested by a client. This includes delivery of customized client specific training, or basic skills training. We have a network of qualified trainers representing a range of business, industry, operations, and maintenance backgrounds. They have experience delivering instructor lead training and can also support training in learning lab environments that are designed for self-paced and individualized instruction.
